An important member of Kendall Brill & Kelly's entertainment and media litigation team, Sharon S. Song has been integral to the firm's success in one of Hollywood's most closely watched cases, the dispute between the Writers Guild of America and talent agencies over the use of packaging fees.

Ms. Song's practice focuses on complex litigation, and she is committed to crafting innovative and persuasive strategies for her clients. She has successfully resolved commercial, securities, intellectual property, and real estate disputes in state and federal courts.

Ms. Song has argued in cases before state and federal trial courts and was an integral member of a victorious trial team that excluded all damages evidence from the opposing party and obtained a jury verdict in favor of the client. She has also worked with the Los Angeles Center for Law and Justice and Public Counsel to provide pro bono legal services to Los Angeles residents and undocumented immigrants seeking asylum.
